DR. J BOVEE DODS'

IMPERIAL WINE

BITTERS,

ARE made from a pure and unadulterated Wine, which is about double the usual strength of other Wines, and is imported by only one house in the United States. Also, from the following valuable Roots, Herbs, &c., viz: Solomon's Seal, Spikenard, Camomile Flowers, Gentian, Wild Cherry Tree Bark, and Bayberry.

WE CHALLENGE

to produce

THEIR EQUAL!

We do not profess to have discovered some Roots "known only to the Indians of South America," and a cure for "all diseases which flesh is heir to," but we claim to present to the public a truly valuable preparation, which every intelligent Physician in the country will approve of and recommend. As a remedy for

INCIPIENT CONSUMPTION,

Weak Lungs, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Diseases of the Nervous System, Paralysis, Piles, Diseases peculiar to Females, Debility, and all cases requiring a Tonic, they are

UNSURPASSED!

For Sore Throat, so common among the Clergy, they are truly valuable.

For the aged and infirm, or for persons of a weak constitution—for Ministers of the Gospel, Lawyers, and all public speakers—for Book-Keepers, Tailors, Seamstresses, Students, Artists, and all persons leading a sedentary life, they will prove truly beneficial.

As a Beverage, they are wholesome, innocent, and delicious to the taste. They produce all the exhilirating effects of Brandy or Wine, without intoxicating; and are a valuable remedy for persons addicted to excessive use of strong drink, and wish to refrain from it. They are pure and entirely free from the poison contained in the adulterated Wines and Liquors with which the country is flooded.

These Bitters not only CURE, but PREVENT Disease, and should be used by all who live in a country where the water is bad, or where Chills and Fevers are prevalent. Being entirely innocent and harmless, they may be given freely to Children and Infants with impunity.

Physicians, Clergymen and temperance advocates, as an act of humanity, should assist in spreading these truly valuable BITTERS over the land, and thereby essentially aid in banishing Drunkenness and Disease.

DAILY GAZETTE.

The Cart Before the Horse.

Oh! for some deep secluded dell,
Where brick and mortar's line may cease,
To sit down in a pot of grease—
No, no—I mean a grot of peace!

I'd choose a home by Erin's wave,
With not a sound to mar life's lot;
I'd by the cannon have a shot—
No—by the Shannon have a cot!

How fair that rocky isle around,
That wide expanse to scan it o'er;
I love a shiver with a roar—
I mean, a river with a shore!

Romantic Erin's sea-girt land,
How sweet with one you love the most
To watch the cocks upon the roost—
I mean, the rocks upon the coast!

'Twere sweet at moonlight's mystic hour,
To wander forth where few frequent,
And come upon a tipsy gent—
No, no—I mean a gipsy's tent!

In that retirement lone I would
Pursue some rustic industry,
And make myself a boiling tea—
No, no—I mean, a toiling bee!

Or, sweet with your fond wife to sit
Outside your door at daylight's close,
While she's hard hitting at your nose—
I mean, hard knitting at your hose!

Perhaps on early cares you brood,
While sympathy her sweet face shows,
'Tis good to walk upon one's toes—
I mean, to talk upon one's woes!

Ah! how you watch that fairy shape,
A summer dress which does adorn!
Admiring much her laugh of scorn—
No, no—I mean, her scarf of lawn!

ORIGIN OF PRAIRIES.—M. Leo Lesquereaux, the well known geologist, who has carefully studied the prairies of the Mississippi valley, ascribes their general formation to the agency of water. He says:

All the prairies still in the state of formation along the great lakes of the north are nothing else but marshes slowly passing to dry land by the slow recession of water. When land is continually covered by low, stagnant water, its only vegetation is that of the rushes and sedges. When the same land is alternately subjected to long mutations and then to dryness, during some months of the year, the same plants continue to cover it. By their decomposition the marshy plants produce a particular ground, either black, light, permeable when it is mixed with sand, as it is near the borders of the lakes, or hard, cold, impermeable when it is mixed with clay or muddy alluvium, as in some marshes underlaid by clay or slates, or along the banks of some rivers. Land continually covered with stagnant water cannot produce any trees because the trees require for their growth, like most of the terrestial plants, the introduction of atmospheric air to the roots. Neither do trees germinate and grow on a ground alternately covered with stagnant water and exposed to dryness for some months of the year.

From these considerations, the law of the general formation of the prairies can be deduced: While a land or a part of a country is slowly passing from the state of dry land, the annual alternation of stagnant water and dryness causes the vegetation of peculiar plants, which by their decomposition form a peculiar soil unfavorable for the growth of trees. From this general rule of formation, which regards only the prairies of the Mississippi valley, all the different phenomena or peculiar appearances of the prairies can be easily explained.

CURIOUS REMAINS.—An interesting discovery has recently been made at Pompeii. In one of the rooms of a house was found a heap of silver and copper coins, 500 or more in number, which had been tied up in a bag. At the same time, and near the same spot, were found two large shears, and a house-mill of the ordinary description, together with a little heap of corn, the grains, though somewhat shriveled, fully preserving their shape, and but little diminished in size. On the next morning the exertions of the excavators were rewarded by the discovery of an oven, the mouth of which was closed by a large iron door. On opening the door there came to view the entire batch of loaves, such as they were deposited in the oven seventeen hundred and eighty-three years ago. They were eighty-two in number, and in all characteristics except weight and color, precisely as they came from the baker's hand. Previous to this time but two loaves had been discovered. These loaves are circular, about nine inches in diameter, rather flat, and indented (evidently with the elbow) in the center; but they are slightly raised at the sides, and divided by deep lines radiating from the center into eight segments. They are of a deep brown color, and hard, but exceedingly light. The scoop with which the loaves were placed in the oven was also discovered.

For Sale.

A HOUSE and six or sixteen acres of land, pleasantly located one-half mile south of the Blind Institute. It has a good supply of shade and ornamental trees. It will be sold at a great sacrifice. For further information inquire of the subscriber on the premises.

General Election Notice.

FOR ROCK COUNTY.

NOTICE is hereby given, that at the General Election to be held in the several towns, wards and election precincts in the state of Wisconsin, on the Tuesday next succeeding the first Monday, being the fourth day of November next the following officers are to be elected, to wit:

A Representative in Congress for the Second Congressional District, for the term of two years from the fourth day of March next.

A State Senator for the Seventeenth Senate District, in the place of Ezra A. Foot.

A Sheriff in place of S. J. M. Putnam.

A Register of Deeds in place of K. W. Bemis.

A Clerk of the Circuit Court in place of Levi Alden.

A County Treasurer in place of S. Holdredge, Jr.

A District Attorney in place of I. C. Sloan.

A Clerk of the Board of Supervisors in place of S. L. James.

A County Surveyor in place of Edward Ruger, and

A Coroner in place of John K. Young, whose several terms of office will expire on the first Monday of January, A. D. 1863.

A Member of Assembly in and for each of the following Assembly Districts in said county of Rock, to-wit: Comprising 1st, the towns of Centre, Janesville, Magnolia, Porter and Union. 2d, the towns of Fulton, Harmony, Lima and Milton. 3d, the towns of Bradford, Clinton, Johnstown and La Prairie. 4th, the city of Beloit and the towns of Turtle and Beloit. 5th, the city of Janesville. 6th, the towns of Avon, Newark, Plymouth, Rock and Spring Valley.

At the same election, the question will be taken upon the approval by the people, of the amendment proposed to Section five, Article five, of the Constitution of the state of Wisconsin, by Chapter 202 of the General Laws of 1862, as follows:

AN ACT Providing for a vote of the people on an amendment to the Constitution.

The People of the State of Wisconsin, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

SECTION 1. At the general election to be held on the Tuesday next succeeding the first Monday of November, in the year 1862, the qualified electors of this state may vote for or against the amendment of the Constitution agreed to by the last and present legislatures, and published before the last general election, as provided by the Constitution, which amendment is as follows: That Section five of Article five of the Constitution be amended so as to read as follows: "Sec. 5. The Governor shall receive during his continuance in office, an annual compensation of two thousand five hundred dollars."

SECTION 2. The votes cast on such amendment shall be by a separate ballot, and shall have written or printed, or partly printed or written on each of them, the words, "For the amendment to the Constitution," or "Against the amendment to the Constitution," which words shall indicate the vote for or against the ratification and adoption of such amendment. The ballots so cast shall be canvassed and returned in the same manner as the votes for state officers are required by law to be canvassed and returned. Also, the Secretary of State shall immediately on the completion of said canvass, publish a statement of the result thereof in the state paper, and if a majority of all the electors voting thereon shall vote "for the amendment to the Constitution," such amendment shall be deemed ratified and adopted, and shall go into effect immediately, otherwise it shall be of no force or effect.

Approved April 4, 1862.

At the same election, the question will be taken upon the approval by the people of the amendments proposed to the General Banking Law, by Chapter 203 of the General Laws of 1862, as amended by Chapter 351 of the General Laws of 1862, as follows:

AN ACT To amend Chapter 71 of the Revised Statutes, entitled "of the Incorporation of Banking Associations."

The People of the State of Wisconsin, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

SECTION 1. No bank or banking association shall demand or receive a greater or higher rate of interest upon any note discounted by such bank or banking association, or for the loan or forbearance of any money, goods or things in action, than seven dollars upon one hundred dollars for one year, and after that rate for a greater or less sum, or for a longer or shorter time. Whenever the securities deposited with the State Treasurer to secure the redemption of the circulating notes of any bank, shall be sold in pursuance of sections forty-one and forty-two of said chapter 71 [of the] Revised Statutes, if such securities shall be or have been sold for a sum sufficient to redeem its outstanding notes at par, then the Bank Comptroller shall, after the expiration of three years from the time of sale of such securities, pay over to the legal representative of any such bank, upon application therefor, the surplus derived from the sale of said securities, if any there be remaining in the custody of the Comptroller.

SECTION 2. At the general election to be held on the Tuesday next succeeding the first Monday in November, A. D. 1862, at all the places of holding elections in this state for the election of officers required by law then to be elected, the question whether this act shall become a law and go into effect, or in any manner be in force, shall be submitted to the people; and if the same shall be approved by a majority of all the votes cast on the subject, it shall go into effect; otherwise, it shall not go into effect nor be in force.

SECTION 3. The votes cast on the subject specified in the last preceding section, shall be by separate ballot, and shall have written or printed, or partly written and partly printed, on each of them, the words "for amendment to the banking law," or "against amendment to banking law," which words shall indicate the vote for or against the approval of this act; and the ballots so cast shall be canvassed and returned in the same manner as the votes cast for state officers are required by law to be returned and canvassed; and the Secretary of State shall, immediately on the completion of said canvass, publish a statement of the result thereof in the official state paper, and shall communicate the same to the next legislature at the commencement of the session; and he shall also deliver to the State Treasurer a certified copy thereof, with a statement of the result of the canvass upon the subject, immediately after the completion of the canvass.

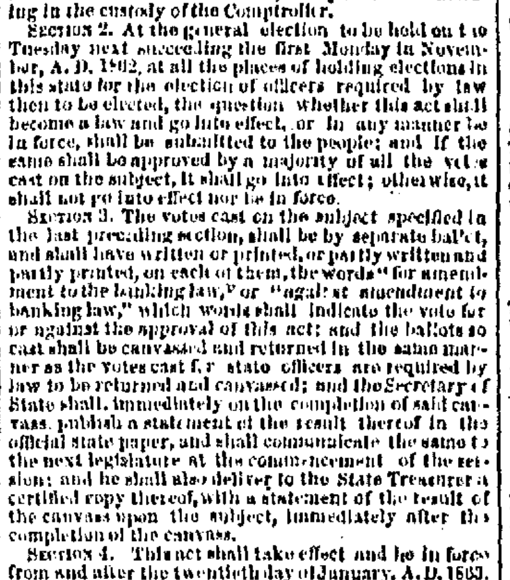

SECTION 4. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after the twentieth day of January, A. D. 1863.

SECTION 5. All acts or parts of acts conflicting with or in any way contravening the provisions of this act, are hereby repealed.

Chapter 203 approved April 1, 1862; chapter 351 approved June 17, 1862.

Said election to be conducted, the votes canvassed and returns made, in accordance with the provisions of chapter 7 of the Revised Statutes of 1858.

Given under my hand at Janesville, this 11th day of August, A. D. 1862. S. J. M. PUTNAM, au12dtd Sheriff of Rock County.

DR. J BOVEE DODS' IMPERIAL WINE BITTERS,

ARE made from a pure and unadulterated Wine, which is about double the usual strength of other Wines, and is imported by only one house in the United States. Also, from the following valuable Roots, Herbs, &c., viz: Solomon's Seal, Spikenard, Camomile Flowers, Gentian, Wild Cherry Tree Bark, and Bayberry.

to produce

THEIR EQUAL!

We do not profess to have discovered some Roots "known only to the Indians of South America," and a cure for "all diseases which flesh is heir to," but we claim to present to the public a truly valuable preparation, which every intelligent Physician in the country will approve of and recommend. As a remedy for

INCIPIENT CONSUMPTION,

Weak Lungs, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Diseases of the Nervous System, Paralysis, Piles, Diseases peculiar to Females, Debility, and all cases requiring a Tonic, they are

UNSURPASSED!

For Sore Throat, so common among the Clergy, they are truly valuable.

For the aged and infirm, or for persons of a weak constitution—for Ministers of the Gospel, Lawyers, and all public speakers—for Book-Keepers, Tailors, Seamstresses, Students, Artists, and all persons leading a sedentary life, they will prove truly beneficial.

As a Beverage, they are wholesome, innocent, and delicious to the taste. They produce all the exhilirating effects of Brandy or Wine, without intoxicating; and are a valuable remedy for persons addicted to excessive use of strong drink, and wish to refrain from it. They are pure and entirely free from the poison contained in the adulterated Wines and Liquors with which the country is flooded.

These Bitters not only CURE, but PREVENT Disease, and should be used by all who live in a country where the water is bad, or where Chills and Fevers are prevalent. Being entirely innocent and harmless, they may be given freely to Children and Infants with impunity.

Physicians, Clergymen and temperance advocates, as an act of humanity, should assist in spreading these truly valuable BITTERS over the land, and thereby essentially aid in banishing Drunkenness and Disease.

DAILY GAZETTE.

The Cart Before the Horse.

Oh! for some deep secluded dell,
Where brick and mortar's line may cease,
To sit down in a pot of grease—
No, no—I mean a grot of peace!

I'd choose a home by Erin's wave,
With not a sound to mar life's lot;
I'd by the cannon have a shot—
No—by the Shannon have a cot!

How fair that rocky isle around,
That wide expanse to scan it o'er;
I love a shiver with a roar—
I mean, a river with a shore!

Romantic Erin's sea-girt land,
How sweet with one you love the most
To watch the cocks upon the roost—
I mean, the rocks upon the coast!

'Twere sweet at moonlight's mystic hour,
To wander forth where few frequent,
And come upon a tipsy gent—
No, no—I mean a gipsy's tent!

In that retirement lone I would
Pursue some rustic industry,
And make myself a boiling tea—
No, no—I mean, a tolling bee!

Or, sweet with your fond wife to sit
Outside your door at daylight's close,
While she's hard hitting at your nose—
I mean, hard knitting at your hose!

Perhaps on early cares you brood,
While sympathy her sweet face shows,
'Tis good to walk upon one's toes—
I mean, to talk upon one's woes!

Ah! how you watch that fairy shape,
A summer dress which does adorn!
Admiring much her laugh of scorn—
No, no—I mean, her scarf of lawn!

ORIGIN OF PRAIRIES.—M. Leo Lesquereaux, the well known geologist, who has carefully studied the prairies of the Mississippi valley, ascribes their general formation to the agency of water. He says:

All the prairies still in the state of formation along the great lakes of the north are nothing else but marshes slowly passing to dry land by the slow recession of water. When land is continually covered by low, stagnant water, its only vegetation is that of the rushes and sedges. When the same land is alternately subjected to long mutations and then to dryness, during some months of the year, the same plants continue to cover it. By their decomposition the marshy plants produce a particular ground, either black, light, permeable when it is mixed with sand, as it is near the borders of the lakes, or hard, cold, impermeable when it is mixed with clay or muddy alluvium, as in some marshes underlaid by clay or slates, or along the banks of some rivers. Land continually covered with stagnant water cannot produce any trees because the trees require for their growth, like most of the terrestrial plants, the introduction of atmospheric air to the roots. Neither do trees germinate and grow on a ground alternately covered with stagnant water and exposed to dryness for some months of the year.

From these considerations, the law of the general formation of the prairies can be deduced: While a land or a part of a country is slowly passing from the state of dry land, the annual alternation of stagnant water and dryness causes the vegetation of peculiar plants, which by their decomposition form a peculiar soil unfavorable for the growth of trees. From this general rule of formation, which regards only the prairies of the Mississippi valley, all the different phenomena or peculiar appearances of the prairies can be easily explained.

CURIOUS REMAINS.—An interesting discovery has recently been made at Pompeii. In one of the rooms of a house was found a heap of silver and copper coins, 500 or more in number, which had been tied up in a bag. At the same time, and near the same spot, were found two large shears, and a house-mill of the ordinary description, together with a little heap of corn, the grains, though somewhat shriveled, fully preserving their shape, and but little diminished in size. On the next morning the exertions of the excavators were rewarded by the discovery of an oven, the mouth of which was closed by a large iron door. On opening the door there came to view the entire batch of loaves, such as they were deposited in the oven seventeen hundred and eighty-three years ago. They were eighty-two in number, and in all characteristics except weight and color, precisely as they came from the baker's hand. Previous to this time but two loaves had been discovered. These loaves are circular, about nine inches in diameter, rather flat, and indented (evidently with the elbow) in the center; but they are slightly raised at the sides, and divided by deep lines radiating from the center into eight segments. They are of a deep brown color, and hard, but exceedingly light. The scoop with which the loaves were placed in the oven was also discovered.

For Sale.

A HOUSE and six or sixteen acres of land, pleasantly located one-half mile south of the Blind Institute. It has a good supply of shade and ornamental trees. It will be sold at a great sacrifice. For further information inquire of the subscriber on the premises.

General Election Notice.

FOR ROCK COUNTY.

NOTICE is hereby given, that at the General Election to be held in the several towns, wards and election precincts in the state of Wisconsin, on the Tuesday next succeeding the first Monday, being the fourth day of November next the following officers are to be elected, to wit:

A Representative in Congress for the Second Congressional District, for the term of two years from the fourth day of March next.

A State Senator for the Seventeenth Senate District, in the place of Ezra A. Foot.

A Sheriff in place of S. J. M. Putnam.

A Register of Deeds in place of K. W. Bemis.

A Clerk of the Circuit Court in place of Levi Alden.

A County Treasurer in place of S. Holdredge, Jr.

A District Attorney in place of I. C. Sloan.

A Clerk of the Board of Supervisors in place of S. L. James.

A County Surveyor in place of Edward Ruger, and

A Coroner in place of John E. Young, whose several terms of office will expire on the first Monday of January, A. D. 1863.

A Member of Assembly in and for each of the following Assembly Districts in said county of Rock, to-wit: Comprising 1st. the towns of Centre, Janesville, Magnolia, Porter and Union. 2d. the towns of Fulton, Harmony, Linn and Milton. 3d, the towns of Bradford, Clinton, Johnstown and La Prairie. 4th. the city of Beloit and the towns of Turtle and Beloit. 5th. the city of Janesville. 6th. the towns of Avon, Newark, Plymouth, Rock and Spring Valley.

At the same election, the question will be taken upon the approval by the people, of the amendment proposed to Section five, Article five, of the Constitution of the state of Wisconsin, by Chapter 202 of the General Laws of 1862, as follows:

AN ACT Providing for a vote of the people on an amendment to the Constitution.

The People of the State of Wisconsin, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

SECTION 1. At the general election to be held on the Tuesday next succeeding the first Monday of November, in the year 1862, the qualified electors of this state may vote for or against the amendment of the Constitution agreed to by the last and present legislatures, and published before the last general election as provided by the Constitution, which amendment is as follows: That Section five of Article five of the Constitution be amended so as to read as follows: "Sec. 5. The Governor shall receive during his continuance in office, an annual compensation of two thousand five hundred dollars."

SECTION 2. The votes cast on such amendment shall be by a separate ballot, and shall have written or printed, or partly printed or written on each of them, the words, "For the amendment to the Constitution," or "Against the amendment to the Constitution," which words shall indicate the vote for or against the ratification and adoption of such amendment. The ballots so cast shall be canvassed and returned in the same manner as the votes for state officers are required by law to be canvassed and returned. Also, the Secretary of State shall immediately on the completion of said canvass, publish a statement of the result thereof in the state paper, and if a majority of all the electors voting thereon shall vote "for the amendment to the Constitution," such amendment shall be deemed ratified and adopted, and shall go into effect immediately, otherwise it shall be of no force or effect.

Approved April 4, 1862.

At the same election, the question will be taken upon the approval by the people of the amendments proposed to the General Banking Law, by Chapter 203 of the General Laws of 1862, as amended by Chapter 354 of the General Laws of 1862, as follows:

AN ACT To amend Chapter 71 of the Revised Statutes, entitled "of the Incorporation of Banking Associations."

The People of the State of Wisconsin, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

SECTION 1. No bank or banking association shall demand or receive a greater or higher rate of interest upon any note discounted by such bank or banking association, or for the loan or forbearance of any money, goods or things in action, than seven dollars upon one hundred dollars for one year, and after that rate for a greater or less sum, or for a longer or shorter time. Whenever the securities deposited with the State Treasurer to secure the redemption of the circulating notes of any bank, shall be sold in pursuance of sections forty-one and forty-two of said chapter 71 [of the] Revised Statutes, if such securities shall be or have been sold for a sum sufficient to redeem its outstanding notes at par, then the Bank Comptroller shall, after the expiration of three years from the time of sale of such securities, pay over to the legal representative of any such bank, upon application therefor, the surplus derived from the sale of said securities, if any there be remaining in the custody of the Comptroller.

SECTION 2. At the general election to be held on the Tuesday next succeeding the first Monday in November, A. D. 1862, at all the places of holding elections in this state for the election of officers required by law then to be elected, the question whether this act shall become a law and go into effect, or in any manner be in force, shall be submitted to the people; and if the same shall be approved by a majority of all the votes cast on the subject, it shall go into effect; otherwise, it shall not go into effect nor be in force.

SECTION 3. The votes cast on the subject specified in the last preceding section, shall be by separate ballot, and shall have written or printed, or partly written and partly printed, on each of them, the words "for amendment to the banking law," or "against amendment to banking law," which words shall indicate the vote for or against the approval of this act; and the ballots so cast shall be canvassed and returned in the same manner as the votes cast for state officers are required by law to be returned and canvassed; and the Secretary of State shall, immediately on the completion of said canvass, publish a statement of the result thereof in the official state paper, and shall communicate the same to the next legislature at the commencement of the session; and he shall also deliver to the State Treasurer a certified copy thereof, with a statement of the result of the canvass upon the subject, immediately after the completion of the canvass.

SECTION 4. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after the twentieth day of January, A. D. 1863.

SECTION 5. All acts or parts of acts conflicting with or in any way contravening the provisions of this act, are hereby repealed.

Chapter 203 approved April 4, 1862; chapter 354 approved June 17, 1862.

Said election to be conducted, the votes canvassed and returns made, in accordance with the provisions of chapter 7 of the Revised Statutes of 1858.

Given under my hand at Janesville, this 11th day of August, A. D. 1862.

Sigel Asks to be Relieved.

The people of the whole country will regret, exceedingly, that Gen. Sigel has found it necessary to ask the President to relieve him of his command. There is no officer in whose skill, bravery and patriotism, the country has greater confidence, and his loss at this time is a serious blow to the Union cause. It is to be hoped that the President will interfere in his behalf, and right the wrongs he has undoubtedly suffered.

There is a class of pro-slavery West Pointers who have undertaken to carry on this war according to their own notions. One of their ideas was not to hurt the rebels much, because they are aristocrats like themselves, and believed in the god of slavery. Another of their pet plans is to prevent all foreigners and volunteer officers from gaining high positions in the army, that they may monopolize all the best military appointments among themselves.

This is the secret of their unscrupulous warfare upon Fremont. He did not come up through West Point, but from the people. They have, therefore, hated and persecuted him, ever since he began to rise in the army; and his recent difficulties have had their origin in this jealously, coupled with political malignity. Halleck, it seems, has driven Sigel from the army by his abuse and enmity, and the real reason for it is that Sigel does not belong to the order of West Point, and was born in Germany. Let the question be submitted to the people, and they will decide, two to one, that Sigel is a much better officer than Halleck, and has demonstrated his fitness in the field, while Halleck has failed everywhere. We trust the President will "put down his foot" hard on Halleck and the West Point clique, and restore Sigel to his command and his rights in the army. The country can much better spare a hundred such officers as Halleck, Buell, McDowell and Thomas, than one like Gen. Franz Sigel.

Now, no one will pretend our state is "invaded," or that we have a "rebellion" within our borders and yet the writ of habeas corpus is suspended.—Madison Patriot

Now, no one will pretend that there is not a rebellion in the United States, or that the state of Wisconsin is not in the United States, and that therefore the suspension of the writ of habeas corpus is authorised by the constitution, in this part of the United States, in any case where the necessity of suppressing the rebellion demands it. If Jeff. Davis should flee from Richmond and be discovered in "our state," would it not be legal to suspend the writ of habeas corpus, and take him to Fort Lafayette? If this can be done in Jeff.'s case, why not in relation to any follower of Jeff. in this state who gives aid and comfort to the rebellion?

If the Patriot should answer in the negative to these two questions, then in the name of the constitution, when and in what case can the writ of habeas corpus be suspended? Will the Patriot tell us?

☞ The United States tax law goes into effect to-morrow. The stamps necessary to be attached to drafts, checks and legal documents, have not yet been received here, so far as we have been informed.

☞ A party of Gen. Grant's body guard, consisting of one company of cavalry raised at Chicago, under Capt. Ford and an Ohio company, were captured last week while on their way to Jackson, Tenn. Gen. Grant and staff have been absent up the river for some days, and left St. Louis on Saturday to return to Corinth.

☞ The Gen. Nelson, who was killed by Gen. Jeff C. Davis at Louisville, was brutal in his manners to his inferiors, and cruel towards the soldiers under his command. He probably deserved the fate which has overtaken him.

Gen. Davis was at Sumpter, under Anderson, as a captain of artillery. He commanded the 22d Indiana in Missouri. He is a native of Clark county, Indiana.

Correspondence of the Cincinnati Commercial.

The Battle of Iuka.

CORINTH, Miss., Sept. 23.

The readers of the Commercial have doubtless already heard of the affair at Iuka on Friday last, but I doubt very much whether an intelligible narrative of the engagement has reached you, or the conduct of Gen. Rosecrans and many of the troops under his command, received its due credit at the hands of correspondent or operator.

The evacuation of Iuka, twenty-three miles distant, by Gen. Murphy, has been already made known throughout the country, and the subsequent occupation of that point by Gen. Sterling Price. Reconnoisances of his position were ordered by Gen. Rosecrans on the Monday and Tuesday following, Sept. 15th and 16th, and the 2d division, Gen. Stanley, and 3d division, Gen. Hamilton, moved from the vicinity of Corinth on Tuesday night, in all about 11,000 effective men, by the way of Jacinto, a distance around to Iuka of forty-three miles. Gen. Rosecrans and staff followed on Wednesday morning.

The force of Gen. Grant, in the meantime, was expected to be in readiness at Byrnsville, seven miles this side of Iuka by rail, to co-operate with Gen. Rosecrans, when, after his circuitous route to the rear, by Jacinto and Barnet's, he should appear before the formidable Missouri chieftain.

Arriving near the foe on Friday afternoon, after considerable skirmishing, Gen. Rosecrans had barely time to form his line of battle, before the confederate enemy was upon him. The action commenced in hot and sudden earnest at twenty minutes past four, on one of the most beautiful autumnal days of the season, and raged without cessation until night closed upon the struggling combatants. The enemy consisted of twenty regiments, commanded by Price in person, and heavily massed upon high ground overlooking Iuka, and at the forks of two roads, one leading directly to the village, and the other a few hundred yards across, to the Fulton road south, upon which the rebels afterward made their escape.

Against this force, possessing a decided advantage of ground, Hamilton's division maintained the unequal contest, with varying success, the odds of battle upon the approach of night, however, being in the federal favor. This became more clearly evident when Stanley's division was drawn up on Saturday morning to renew the fight, and it was found that the bird had flown, or, at least, commenced his flight. The division promptly pushed on to Iuka, in time to shell the rear of the retreating column, while the 2d Iowa cavalry, Lieut. Col. Hatch, was despatched to the right and the 3d division moved back to Barnet's and across to Thompson's corners upon the Fulton road, to harass, and, if possible, intercept our swiftly moving antagonists. Pursuit was continued for about eleven miles, but the enemy, admirably falling back, made Fulton safely, some 60 miles southerly from this place. The failure of Gen. Grant to co-operate from above, by which a diversion of the rebels could have been effected, so as to enable Gen. Rosecrans to advance nearer Iuka and effectually occupy their every avenue of escape, is at least severely criticised, and as yet is not officially accounted for. It is generally admitted that Gen. Rosecrans not only accomplished all that was humanly practicable, but distinguished himself very signally under circumstances greatly adverse to his complete success.

I have not yet seen the official lists of killed and wounded, but the information which I send you is gathered from the most reliable source. It is positively known that our forces buried ninety-nine of the enemy's dead upon the field, and one hundred and sixty-two others who had been removed from the field and subsequently left behind. They were found in hospitals, and scattered about town, about three hundred and fifty of their wounded; and from the numerous bloody stretchers which they left behind in their flight, it is probable they carried off and crowded into wagons two or three hundred more. We also captured over one hundred prisoners.

The federal loss in killed was between seventy and eighty; wounded, three hundred and fifty; prisoners, twenty-three.

The 5th Iowa, Colonel Mathias—as true hearted a soldier as was ever mounted; 11th Missouri, commanded by the chivalric Mower, and the 11th Ohio battery, Captain Sands, under the immediate command of Lieutenants Sears and Neil, bore the brunt of the battle, and fought and suffered with a heroism unsurpassed in the gory annals of war. The Iowa regiment, which marched up to the fearful slaughter with only four hundred and eighty-two men, lost thirty-five in killed—among whom were four lieutenants—and one hundred and eighty-four wounded. The 11th Missouri, which numbered five hundred and fifty, lost eighty in killed and wounded, and the battery had over half their number killed or wounded, and all of their horses killed but twelve.

The adjutant of the 16th Iowa was killed and Colonel Chambers, of the same regiment, severely wounded. Col. Boomer, of the 26th Missouri, was also wounded.

Gen. Hamilton had his horse shot under him, and to him, as well as to General Stanley, Sullivan and Rosecrans, too much praise cannot be awarded for their gallantry. Gen. Rosecrans, and no better man deserves the major generalship which he has received, conducted himself with admirable daring and coolness, directing movements with the judicious mind of a thorough soldier, and fearlessly exposing himself, dismounted, along the front of his pressed and breaking lines.

Among the trophies of the fight was a beautiful stand of regimental colors inscribed "Oak Hill" and "Elkhorn," showing that the rebel flag had been borne through the perilous fields known more familiarly to the north as Wilson's Creek and Pea Ridge.

When Price retreated, he covered his magnificent train, over two miles in length, with a full brigade, until nearing Thompson's corners, when he formed in line of battle till the train passed on.

General Little, the military adviser of Gen. Price, was killed while in conversation with Price, and Gen. Whitfield, of some other division, wounded in the shoulder.

It is supposed that Price did not expect an attack at Iuka, but was co-operating with Van Dorn, Breckinridge and Villipigue, for a combined attack upon Corinth. His reverse at Iuka, causing him to fall back, has doubtless disconcerted this plan, although at the date of this writing it is supposed that Van Dorn & Co. are doing their part of the programme by a demonstration at Bolivar, to the assistance of which point reinforcements have been sent from here to-day.

I regret to add in connection with this hurried scrawl, that censure is cast upon the 48th Indiana, 80th Ohio and 17th Iowa for misconduct in action, but how far their fault is attributable to the incompetency or poltroonery of officers remains to be investigated.

The following regiments composed the 3d division, which took part in the fight: 5th, 10th, 16th and 17th Iowa; 10th, 11th and 26th Mo.; 48th Indiana; 80th Ohio; 4th Minnesota; 12th Wisconsin battery, and 11th Ohio battery. More anon.

Yours, BURT AXTON.

The following is another account of the battle, from the Cincinnati Gazette:

It was on Friday evening, while the left wing was marching, that Gen. Rosecrans fought the battle of Iuka—undoubtedly the bloodiest and hardest fought battle of the war in the west. It seems that he was oblivious of the flag of truce business, and was intent solely on meeting and fighting the enemy, for on Friday evening, just before sunset, he fell upon him as he was retreating from Iuka, about a mile southeast of that place. Immediately the battle commenced in dead earnest. The rebels formed on a road on a ridge, a line less than a quarter of a mile in length, and this was the whole extent of the battle ground. A single brigade of Gen. Rosecrans' division bore the brunt of the fight. The first movement was to dislodge the rebels from their position by a charge, which was no sooner done than they rallied and drove back our men in a similar manner, only to be driven in turn by our determined troops. Backward and forward thus the tide of battle ebbed and flowed, until darkness put an end to the conflict. Our troops rested near the battle ground till morning, when they found that Price had flown, leaving all his dead and wounded.

I said this was one of the bloodiest western battles. From several persons who on the ground early in the day, I learned that the rebel loss in killed and wounded was not less than 500, fully 300 of whom were killed. Our own loss was 120 killed and about 200 wounded. All this, too, was done in an hour and a half, and very much of it with the bayonet. It was almost entirely a hand-to-hand enagement. I regret exceedingly that circumstance have rendered it impossible for me to obtain any list of killed and wounded. I can only say that the 11th Ohio battery and the 5th Iowa Infantry suffered terribly. This battery was in possession of the rebels when the 5th Iowa charged them with a valor of which Iowa may well be proud, and retook the guns—the horses all being killed. Seventy or eighty of the men belonging to this battery were either killed or wounded. The number lost by the 5th Iowa I could not ascertain. An orderly told me he saw 27 of them gathered in one place for burial.

BY TELEGRAPH.

REPORTED FOR THE DAILY GAZETTE.

BY WISCONSIN STATE TELEGRAPH LINE, Office in Union Passenger Depot.

Last Night's Report.

LOUISVILLE, Sept. 29.

At the Galt House at about 8 o'clock this morning, a difficulty occurred between Brig. Gen. Jeff. C. Davis and Maj. Gen. Nelson. It appears that there has been a difficulty between the parties for some time. Nelson was in the office of the Galt House, when Davis approached and spoke to him, when Nelson refused to listen to him, and used some insulting language. Davis immediately borrowed a pistol and followed Nelson, who was going up stairs to his room, and whilst on the stairs shot him, the ball entering the heart. Nelson afterwards walked to his room, and was laid on a mattrass. He died about 8½ o'clock.

LOUISVILLE, Sept. 29.

There are many conflicting accounts of the shooting of Gen. Nelson by Davis.—About a week ago Nelson placed Davis in command of the home guard forces of the city. At night Davis reported to Nelson the number of men working on the entrenchments and enrolled for service.—Nelson cursed him for not having more. Davis replied that he was a general officer and demanded the treatment of a gentleman. Nelson, in an insulting manner, ordered him to report at Cincinnati, and told him he would order a provost marshal to eject him from the city. This morning Gov. Morton and Gen. Nelson were standing in the rear of the desk of the Galt House, when Gen. Davis approached and requested Gov. Morton to witness the conversation between himself and Nelson.

He demanded of Nelson an apology for the rude treatment he had received last week. Nelson, being a little deaf, asked him to speak louder. Davis demanded an apology. Nelson denounced him and slapped him on the face. Davis stepped back, clenched his fist and again demanded an apology. Nelson slapped him in the face again and denounced him as a coward.—Davis turned away, procured a pistol from a friend and followed Nelson, who was going up stairs. Davis told Nelson to defend himself, and immediately fired. The ball penetrated the left breast. Nelson died in about twenty minutes. Nelson requested to see his old friend, Rev. Mr. Talbott, rector of Calvary Episcopal Church, who was there at the Galt House. Talbott administered the sacrament according to the forms of his church. The general repeated the service after the minister, and refused to talk on any other subject. He regretted that he had not long ago turned his attention to religion.

CAPE RACE, Sept. 20.

The steamship Europa, from Liverpool Sept. 20th, and Queenstown Sept. 21st, has arrived.

The political news is unimportant.

Breadstuffs closed dull, but steady, at Friday's decline—6d on flour, 2d on wheat. Corn unchanged. Provisions flat.

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.

Gov. Berry, of New Hampshire, flatly contradicts the Herald's report of the doings at the conference of governors at Altoona.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 29.

The special Washington dispatch to the Philadelphia North American says:

Rumors are in circulation to the effect that the Union fleet had commenced an attack on Fort Morgan, below Mobile.

The Union prisoners paroled at Harper's Ferry are to be sent to Gen. Pope to fight the Indians.

The army corps of Gen. Sigel has been largely reinforced within the past fortnight. It is whispered that he is now on the track of the enemy not far from Warrenton.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 29.

Harper's Ferry is now held in large force by our troops. Evidently, it is regarded as an important point in the position of the army of the Potomac. All indications here bespeak renewed activity on the part of the army. Rebel accounts of the late battle create some disgust but more amusement among officers and soldiers.

The headquarters of Gen. McClellan have been removed from Sharpsburg to a point three miles nearer Harper's Ferry.

To-Day's Report.

[Reported Exclusively for the Daily Gazette.]

MORNING DISPATCHES.

FORTRESS MONROE, Sept. 28.

A flag of truce brought down five families from Richmond bound north.

The Richmond Dispatch, of Sept. 25th, says our army is daily increasing by accessions of stragglers and conscripts. Whatever may be the intended movements of Lee, he is perfectly successful in keeping them concealed from our people, and finds little chance of making its way to the enemy. Up to Tuesday last our pickets extended to the neighborhood of Harper's Ferry. It is not probable that the federal army will attempt to cross the Potomac at present against us. Remney is occupied by our rangers. Five hundred Yankees, many of them wounded, are expected to arrive, to-day, from Gordonsville. If they arrive in season they may be included in the number of released prisoners that we shall send to Aiken's Landing to-day, (Thursday.) Twenty-one Yankee prisoners, captured in North Carolina, arrived at Lybey prison, yesterday.

The Dispatch also mentions the fact that Abraham has issued a proclamation to liberate the slaves, but makes no further comment on the subject.

The Dispatch contains an item from a Texas paper, dated Sept. 3d, which says: Sam Houston is alive yet, and well, and living on his old homestead.

The Richmond Examiner says that the public highway in the valley of Virginia, from Winchester to Staunton, is crowded with suffering and wounded soldiers—poor fellows who were in the terrible fights of Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, and especially in the terrible fight of Wednesday of last week. They left the battle for home or the hospital, and were too weak to proceed, and had no money to procure their passage. It is exceedingly painful and sorrowful to see these poor, ragged, toil worn, battle-scared heroes, trudging wearily and languidly along. Let them be looked after at once. The same paper complains of frequent failure of southern mails. The Examiner also regrets that debates in congress on the conscription bill should be conducted in a way to influence the public mind. It complains particularly of the speech of Conrad, of Louisiana, on the subject, and adds that the word "states" means much more than is implied in Conrad's limited lexicon. States are not political organizations, they are sovereignties.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 29.

A ride from the center of the army of the Potomac to its right wing, at Williamsport, gives one an impressive idea of the immense numbers of men and aggregate material that has been brought together; for 13 miles the eye never loses sight of camps. N. McLaughlin, of Brad. Johnson's staff, gave himself up to the pickets of the 8th Maryland. He states he was utterly tired of the rebel service, and would sooner be in Fort McHenry than with their army in Virginia. Early this morning a large force of cavalry crossed the Potomac at Blackburn's Ford, and moved off towards Shepardstown. They had not returned when I close this letter. Our scouts visit Shepardstown frequently by day, while the rebel cavalry still come there at night, that place being held by neither. At Shepardstown Ferry, on this side of the Potomac, there are over 200 wounded rebel prisoners guarded by the 91st Pennsylvania regiment and under the care of six rebel surgeons. The men are of desperately wounded cases. Our advance is four or five miles out, and a rebel force composed of 10 brigades of Louisiana and North Carolina troops are in our immediate in front and show a disposition to contest our further advance. A spirited cavalry and artillery skirmish took place this morning, in which our men did well and drove the rebels some distance. A rebel cavalry officer was captured and brought in to the ferry.

The Washington correspondence of the Tribune says: Sigel has asked to be relieved of his command. His letter to the President gives the following reasons for the course he has found it necessary to pursue:

1st, Because he was placed under the command of a junior officer without the knowledge of the President, although the President alone has power to place a junior over a senior of the same grade. 2d, Because his command has gradually been reduced; first by removal from it of two divisions, Cox and Cooks, and then of the brigades of Piatt and Milroy. 3d, Because none of the regiments raised expressly for him, except one, have been assigned to him; nor have others been given him in their places. 4th, Because of the grossly abusive manner in which Halleck has treated him, personally and officially. 5th, Because his little command has been placed in an exceedingly exposed position, and ordered to perform tasks that are impossible for it, and require a large command. 6th, Because he cannot procure horses or equipage for his artillery and cavalry, and hence those arms of the service are comparatively useless to him.

7th, Because all his requests and requisitions are neglected or refused, on account of which his troops are discouraged and comparatively inefficient, and many have not been paid for six months.

8th, Because he cannot expect fair treatment, and because his troops, for whom he is doubly concerned, are made the innocent sufferers on his account. He is persuaded that they would fare better under another commander.

The statement that troops raised expressly for Sigel had not been given him, is confirmed by the testimony of the governors of six states; Governors Yates, Tod, Blair, Kirkwood, Andrew and Sprague, who are anxious to know why this is so arranged, and why the authorities do not carry out the agreement made at the time permission was granted the governors to raise regiments for Sigel.

Several western governors are urging the appointment of Hooker to command the Union armies in the Mississippi Valley.

Judge Lane, of northern Alabama, is here. He says, as all men say who live in that section of country, that it is of paramount importance to take possession of East Tennessee and hold against all rebel comers. He says that if our lines extended to the whole southern boundary of Tennessee, the rebel army would be entirely unable to support itself. Speaking from a thorough knowledge of the nature of the country south of that line, he says it is incapable of producing the requisite supplies. He considers the recent movements northward, of the rebel armies, to be in the main great foraging expeditions in search of bread.

It is stated by very respectable authority that General Cassius M. Clay will, after all, return to Russia. The reason assigned is, his inability to agree with the administration in regard to the conduct of the war. The statement gains incredibility, from rumors which have for some time prevailed, of Mr. Cameron's expected return on a visit.

The Times' correspondence asserts that the conscription act is being actively and most rigidly enforced in that portion of Eastern Virginia now occupied by the rebel army. Every white male person between 15 and 65 is being impressed into the rebel service. The rebels have also impressed all negroes into their service as teamsters and laborers in the quartermaster's department.

The statement going the rounds to the effect that previous to his leaving Washington for Frederick, McClellan advised the abandonment of Harper's Ferry, is unfounded.

Gen. Harney had an interview to-day with the secretary of war, but the object and result has not transpired.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.

The following report of the victory of Antietam has been forwarded to headquarters of the army by Gen. McClellan:

NEAR SHARPSBURG, Sept. 29—1:30 P. M.

To Maj. Gen. H. W. Halleck, General-in Chief U. S. Army:

I have the honor to report the following as some of the results of the battle of South Mountain and Antietam. At South Mountain our loss was 443 dead, 1,860 wounded, and 76 missing; total, 2,315. At Antietam our loss was 2,010 killed, 9,416 wounded and 1,044 missing; total, 12,469. Total loss in both battles, 14,794. The loss of the rebels in the two battles, as near as can be ascertained from other data, will not fall short of the following estimate:

Major Davis, assistant inspector general, who superintended the burial of the dead, reports about 3,000 rebels buried upon the field of Antietam by our troops. Previous to this, however, the rebels have buried many of their own dead upon the distant portion of the battle field, which they occupied after the battle, probably at least 500. The loss of the rebels at South Mountain cannot be ascertained with accuracy, but as our troops drove them from the commencement of the action, and as much greater number of their dead was seen on the field than of our own men, it is not unreasonable to suppose that their loss was greater than ours.

Estimating their killed at 500, the total rebels killed in the two battles would be 1,000. According to the rates of our own killed and wounded, this would make their loss, in wounded, 18,742, as nearly as can be determined at this time. The number of prisoners taken by our troops in the two battles will, at the lowest estimate, amount to 5,000. The full returns will no doubt show a larger number; of these, about 1200 are wounded. This gives a rebel loss in killed, wounded and prisoners of 25,542. It will be observed that this does not include their stragglers, the number of whom is said to be be by citizens very large.

It may be safely concluded that the rebel army lost at least 30,000 of their best troops from the time our troops first encountered the enemy in Maryland, until he was driven back into Virginia. We captured thirteen guns, seven caissons, nine limbers, two field forges, two caisson bodies, thirty-nine colors and one signal flag. We have not lost a single gun or a color on the battle field of Antietam. 14,000 small arms were collected besides the large number carried off by citizens and those distributed on the ground to recruits and others, unarmed men arriving. Immediately after the battle of South Mountain, no collection of small arms was made, owing to the haste of the pursuit from that point. Four hundred were taken from the opposite side of the Potomac. (Signed)

GEO. B. McCLELLAN,
Major General Commanding.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.

The Third Regiment at the Battle of Antietam.

Col. T. H. Ruger has made a report to Gov. Salomon of the casualties in the 3d Wisconsin regiment in the battle of Antietam, or Sharpsburg. He says:

"The action began about six o'clock in the morning, and continued with great severity during the forenoon and on portions of the field during the day. The regiment behaved with great steadiness and fortitude, maintaining itself in an exposed position, with heavy loss, but without flinching, and finally, with others, driving the enemy. The wounded were promptly removed from the field and cared for. I regret to again have to report a melancholy list of killed and wounded. The regiment carried into action about three hundred and forty-five officers and men. The total of killed and wounded is one hundred and ninety-seven, almost two thirds. Most of the wounded will ultimately recover. The following is a list of killed, wounded and missing. The wounded on being removed from the field were distributed to the various hospitals, in some cases miles distant, so that it has been impossible, in many cases, to ascertain the character of the wounds."

Col. Ruger reports a full list of the killed and wounded. The number killed was 27, wounded 170. Such a report is a conclusive evidence though a sad tribute to the bravery and good conduct of the regiment. Col. R., in a private note to Gov. S., says that his wound is too slight for him to allow his name to be placed in the list.

The 28th Wisconsin Infantry.

This fine regiment, now encamped in Camp Washburn, Milwaukee, is progressing well in drill and efficiency. It is most admirably officered—both for qualities to secure gallantry in the field, and kind, good management in camp—the officers showing lively solicitude for the well being of the men, in all matters, for health and comfort.

AMERICAN AND ENGLISH OPERATIVES.—Anthony Trollope, in his interesting work on America, thus contrasts the appearance of the operatives in Lowell, Massachusetts, and Manchester, England:

"That which most surprises an English visitor, on going through the mills at Lowell, is the personal appearance of the men and women who work at them. As there are twice as many women as there are men, it is to them the attention is chiefly called. They are not only better dressed, cleaner and better mounted in every respect than the girls employed at manufactories in England, but they are so infinitely superior as to make a stranger immediately perceive that some very strong cause must have created the difference. We all know that class of young women whom we generally see serving behind counters in the shops of our great cities. They are neat, well-dressed, careful, especially about their hair, composed in their manner, and sometimes a little supercilious in the propriety of their demeanor. It is exactly the same class of young women that one sees in the factories at Lowell. They are not sallow, nor dirty, nor ragged, nor rough. They have about them no signs of want or of low culture. One would, of course be disposed to say that the superior condition of the workers must have been occasioned by superior wages; this, to a certain extent, has been the cause. Women's wages including all that they receive at the Lowell factories, average about 14s a week, which is, I take it, fully a third more than women can earn in Manchester, or did earn before the loss of the American cotton began to tell upon them. But if wages at Manchester were raised to the Lowell standard, the Manchester women would not be clothed, fed, cared for and educated like the Lowell women."

At a recent fire in Fall River, two Irish laborers, who had behaved gallantly in attempting to subdue the flames, were caught in a dangerous predicament. One gable of the house fell in, and that under which they were standing tottered over them. One of the men attempted to fly from the spot, but was overtaken by the burning ruins, and very seriously injured. The other seeing an open door in the base of the wall, darted through it, and emerged unhurt on the other side. His employer, the next day, commenting on his escape, said he should return thanks to Providence for his preservation. "Och, thin," said Dermot, scratching his head very slowly, "sure I do be thankful to Providence, and I think it was very merciful to me; but, sir, wasn't I mighty cute myself?"

By order of the Committee.

Correspondence of the Daily Gazette.

From the Twelfth Wisconsin Battery.

JACINTO, Sept. 21th, 1862.

EDS. GAZETTE:—We are now encamped just outside the village of Jacinto, and are in hopes that we will be allowed to remain a while and drill, but there is no certainty of our staying anywhere any length of time; that ever moving rebel, Price, dont give us much rest. But we are enough for him. I rather think he came to that conclusion at Iuka last Friday. We have have had a hard tramp of three days, our horses being so worn out by hard service that we were obliged to foot it, and it was rather a rough initiation for the Janesville boys, as they had not been accustomed to that style of traveling. We had been with the battery but three days when we received orders to pack up all our luggage, send it to Corinth, and start with the rest of the division for Iuka. When an army is on the march in this part of the country they generally fare well, as we have full privilege to take whatever we want from the farm houses, fields and orchards along the route, and the battery boys have proved themselves as good at "jayhawking" as those older in the service. Hard crackers and salt pork are thrown aside, they are not fit to eat when beef, poultry, sweet potatoes and fruit are to be had. You Janesville people would smile to see the "flower of the city" roasting potatoes, frying meat or baking pancakes over a fire in the woods; but our victuals must be cooked, it wont do to eat them raw. You can imagine about how palatable those pancakes are, made of flour and water, and cooked in a frying pan, but they are better than hard, musty crackers.

You have probably heard that the 12th battery was in the fight at Iuka. Two guns only opened fire, but they did good execution. The other two were disabled while being drawn on the field, and were left for awhile, but were afterwards drawn off. A few of the Janesville boys were in the action and fought like old hands. Most of us, however, were scattered about wherever we pleased to go, as we had not been assigned to our pieces, and had had no drill. What they took us into the fight for is more than I can tell. Although the balls flew thick around us, and many of us no doubt called to mind long forgotten prayers, we came out safe, and are better prepared for the next engagement.

As night came on the firing ceased, and we lay down to sleep away the hours till morning, when we fully expected the contest would be renewed, but Gen. Price concluded to follow out his old programme—the skedaddle. We started on towards Iuka, but soon received orders to turn about, and make all haste to cut off the retreat of the enemy. We made haste, but were too late; the rebels had given us the slip. We again turned about, and did not camp till 9 o'clock that night. I do not know the distance traveled, but we hoofed it all day under a hot sun, and through a hilly country. The next day, Sunday, we drew two day's rations and left for Jacinto about noon, which place we reached about ten o'clock, and in the morning moved half a mile out of town, where we now are.

We have been assigned to our pieces, and drill several hours each day, making good progress.

The 8th Wisconsin is in camp about a mile from here. Most of the boys of Co. G have been over to see us; they are the happiest set of fellows I ever saw, and are generally tough and hearty.

We received our mail to-day, for the first time in a week, and the boys are now scattered around busily engaged in devouring the contents of letters and papers. Our knapsacks have not yet come up, and as our writing materials are in them, the people of Janesville need not think strange that they do do not receive letters from the battery. Yours, W. S. B.

☞ The 32d regiment, Col. Howe, has been mustered into service. Their destination is supposed to be the Indian war.

☞ Over 8,000 of the Union soldiers captured at Harper's Ferry, and subsequently paroled, have now arrived at Chicago and are in the barracks of Camp Douglas. They are to be armed and newly equiped for frontier service, unless sooner exchanged.

AT LAPPIN'S HALL, THIS EVENING.—Cadwell's Opera Troupe, who have been playing with success, in Milwaukee make their first bow in our city. They number twelve star performers. Press and public, wherever they have appeared, pronounce them as second to no troupe in the country. The price of admission is within the reach of every one—only 25 cents.

☞ Reconnoisances have been made from Washington to Warrenton Junction, and no enemy found.

☞ It is believed that the rebel invasion of Kentucky has sole reference to winter supplies, and that they will soon retire with their plunder, without fighting, if Buell remains in command.

FOND DU LAC DISTRICT.—The republican congressional convention, which met at Fond du Lac last week, declined to nominate a republican candidate, and recommended Col. Bragg to the electors. Col. B. is a Union, war democrat, and his election over Mr. Eldredge, the Ryan address candidate, is not improbable.

WAUKESHA COUNTY.—The number of enrollments in Waukesha was 4,644, and the exemptions 770.

Renting of Slips Postponed.

The renting of the slips in Christ Church is postponed until Thursday next, at 10 o'clock A. M. H. T. SELBY,

d2t. Secretary.

☞ In Jefferson county, 3,289 persons have been returned on the enlistment rolls, and 1,561 volunteers are reported, including old and new regiments.

☞ A son of George D. Prentice was mortally wounded in a fight at Augusta, Ky., last week. He was a lieutenant colonel in the rebel service.

☞ The Ladies Hospital Relief Society will meet at Mrs. Geo. B. Ely's, on Bluff Street, on Wednesday, Oct. 1st, from one o'clock till five o'clock P. M.

MARIA F. CLARK, Secretary.

Lord Monck, Governor General of Canada, Lord Mulgrave, Governor General of Nova Scotia, Lord F. Paulett, of the British army, and other English dignitaries, arrived at Chicago on Saturday. They have come for a hunting expedition on the Illinois prairies.

KILLED.—Henry Cooper, son of John H. Cooper, of Shopiere, a member of one of the New York regiments, was killed in the battle of the 17th, the ball striking him in the mouth. He died instantly. Mr. Cooper was at one time a member of Beloit College.—Beloit Journal.

Judson's Mountain Herb Pills.—How strange and wonderful it often seems to us that a medicine composed of simple mountain herbs and roots, should so certainly as such cut and cure disease. How surprising that the Indians should know and preserve so long and we the secret that has escaped the search of the greatest physicians the world has ever seen. True, the ancient inhabitants of Mexico were a strange race, found by the Spaniards living in large cities, and allowing for their strange customs and religion as well civilized as their conquerors. In the words of a writer of some celebrity, "They have perished from the earth, their cities are gigantic piles of ruins, their Kings and Princes so mighty in their life, are forgotten; their ruins and their medicine alone are left." The united testimony of all intelligent persons is, that JUDSON'S MOUNTAIN HERB PILLS are the most successful medicine in the world in curing disease.

THERE is nothing so much sought for by the public as a practical Sewing Machine, one that is

and have all the advantage of a reversible feed motion, which carries the work either way, which, together with making all the four stitches, can be done whilst the machine is in motion; the saving of time in stopping to change the length of stitch, is obviated by this machine.

Any correspondence regarding our Machines will be promptly answered. Enclose a Letter Stamp and we will send circular and sample of work by return mail

Sigel Asks to be Relieved.

The people of the whole country will regret, exceedingly, that Gen. Sigel has found it necessary to ask the President to relieve him of his command. There is no officer in whose skill, bravery and patriotism, the country has greater confidence, and his loss at this time is a serious blow to the Union cause. It is to be hoped that the President will interfere in his behalf, and right the wrongs he has undoubtedly suffered.

There is a class of pro-slavery West Pointers who have undertaken to carry on this war according to their own notions. One of their ideas was not to hurt the rebels much, because they are aristocrats like themselves, and believed in the god of slavery. Another of their pet plans is to prevent all foreigners and volunteer officers from gaining high positions in the army, that they may monopolize all the best military appointments among themselves.

This is the secret of their unscrupulous warfare upon Fremont. He did not come up through West Point, but from the people. They have, therefore, hated and persecuted him, ever since he began to rise in the army; and his recent difficulties have had their origin in this jealously, coupled with political malignity. Halleck, it seems, has driven Sigel from the army by his abuse and enmity, and the real reason for it is that Sigel does not belong to the order of West Point, and was born in Germany. Let the question be submitted to the people, and they will decide, two to one, that Sigel is a much better officer than Halleck, and has demonstrated his fitness in the field, while Halleck has failed everywhere. We trust the President will "put down his foot" hard on Halleck and the West Point clique, and restore Sigel to his command and his rights in the army. The country can much better spare a hundred such officers as Halleck, Buell, McDowell and Thomas, than one like Gen. Franz Sigel.

Now, no one will pretend our state is "invaded," or that we have a "rebellion" within our borders and yet the writ of habeas corpus is suspended.—Madison Patriot

Now, no one will pretend that there is not a rebellion in the United States, or that the state of Wisconsin is not in the United States, and that therefore the suspension of the writ of habeas corpus is authorised by the constitution, in this part of the United States, in any case where the necessity of suppressing the rebellion demands it. If Jeff. Davis should flee from Richmond and be discovered in "our state," would it not be legal to suspend the writ of habeas corpus, and take him to Fort Lafayette? If this can be done in Jeff.'s case, why not in relation to any follower of Jeff. in this state who gives aid and comfort to the rebellion?

If the Patriot should answer in the negative to these two questions, then in the name of the constitution, when and in what case can the writ of habeas corpus be suspended? Will the Patriot tell us?

☞ The United States tax law goes into effect to-morrow. The stamps necessary to be attached to drafts, checks and legal documents, have not yet been received here, so far as we have been informed.

☞ A party of Gen. Grant's body guard, consisting of one company of cavalry raised at Chicago, under Capt. Ford and an Ohio company, were captured last week while on their way to Jackson, Tenn. Gen. Grant and staff have been absent up the river for some days, and left St. Louis on Saturday to return to Corinth.

☞ The Gen. Nelson, who was killed by Gen. Jeff C. Davis at Louisville, was brutal in his manners to his inferiors, and cruel towards the soldiers under his command. He probably deserved the fate which has overtaken him.

Gen. Davis was at Sumpter, under Anderson, as a captain of artillery. He commanded the 22d Indiana in Missouri. He is a native of Clark county, Indiana.

Correspondence of the Cincinnati Commercial.

The Battle of Iuka.

CORINTH, Miss., Sept. 23.

The readers of the Commercial have doubtless already heard of the affair at Iuka on Friday last, but I doubt very much whether an intelligible narrative of the engagement has reached you, or the conduct of Gen. Rosecrans and many of the troops under his command, received its due credit at the hands of correspondent or operator.

The evacuation of Iuka, twenty-three miles distant, by Gen. Murphy, has been already made known throughout the country, and the subsequent occupation of that point by Gen. Sterling Price. Reconnoisances of his position were ordered by Gen. Rosecrans on the Monday and Tuesday following, Sept. 15th and 16th, and the 2d division, Gen. Stanley, and 3d division, Gen. Hamilton, moved from the vicinity of Corinth on Tuesday night, in all about 11,000 effective men, by the way of Jacinto, a distance around to Iuka of forty-three miles. Gen. Rosecrans and staff followed on Wednesday morning.

The force of Gen. Grant, in the meantime, was expected to be in readiness at Byrnsville, seven miles this side of Iuka by rail, to co-operate with Gen. Rosecrans, when, after his circuitous route to the rear, by Jacinto and Barnet's, he should appear before the formidable Missouri chieftain.

Arriving near the foe on Friday afternoon, after considerable skirmishing, Gen. Rosecrans had barely time to form his line of battle, before the confederate enemy was upon him. The action commenced in hot and sudden earnest at twenty minutes past four, on one of the most beautiful autumal days of the season, and raged without cessation until night closed upon the struggling combatants. The enemy consisted of twenty regiments, commanded by Price in person, and heavily massed upon high ground overlooking Iuka, and at the forks of two roads, one leading directly to the village, and the other a few hundred yards across, to the Fulton road south, upon which the rebels afterward made their escape.

Against this force, possessing a decided advantage of ground, Hamilton's division maintained the unequal contest, with varying success, the odds of battle upon the approach of night, however, being in the federal favor. This became more clearly evident when Stanley's division was drawn up on Saturday morning to renew the fight, and it was found that the bird had flown, or, at least, commenced his flight. The division promptly pushed on to Iuka, in time to shell the rear of the retreating column, while the 2d Iowa cavalry, Lieut. Col. Hatch, was despatched to the right and the 3d division moved back to Barnet's and across to Thompson's corners upon the Fulton road, to harass, and, if possible, intercept our swiftly moving antagonists. Pursuit was continued for about eleven miles, but the enemy, admirably falling back, made Fulton safely, some 60 miles southerly from this place. The failure of Gen. Grant to co-operate from above, by which a diversion of the rebels could have been effected, so as to enable Gen. Rosecrans to advance nearer Iuka and effectually occupy their every avenue of escape, is at least severely criticized, and as yet is not officially accounted for. It is generally admitted that Gen. Rosecrans not only accomplished all that was humanly practicable, but distinguished himself very signally under circumstances greatly adverse to his complete success.

I have not yet seen the official lists of killed and wounded, but the information which I send you is gathered from the most reliable source. It is positively known that our forces buried ninety-nine of the enemy's dead upon the field, and one hundred and sixty-two others who had been removed from the field and subsequently left behind. They were found in hospitals, and scattered about town, about three hundred and fifty of their wounded; and from the numerous bloody stretchers which they left behind in their flight, it is probable they carried off and crowded into wagons two or three hundred more. We also captured over one hundred prisoners.

The federal loss in killed was between seventy and eighty; wounded, three hundred and fifty; prisoners, twenty-three.

The 5th Iowa, Colonel Mathias—as true hearted a soldier as was ever mounted; 11th Missouri, commanded by the chivalric Mower, and the 11th Ohio battery, Captain Sands, under the immediate command of Lieutenants Sears and Neil, bore the brunt of the battle, and fought and suffered with a heroism unsurpassed in the gory annals of war. The Iowa regiment, which marched up to the fearful slaughter with only four hundred and eighty-two men, lost thirty-five in killed—among whom were four lieutenants—and one hundred and eighty-four wounded. The 11th Missouri, which numbered five hundred and fifty, lost eighty in killed and wounded, and the battery had over half their number killed or wounded, and all of their horses killed but twelve.

The adjutant of the 16th Iowa was kill- and Colonel Chambers, of the same regiment, severely wounded. Col. Boomer, of the 26th Missouri, was also wounded."

Gen. Hamiltoon had his horse shot under him, and to him, as well as to General Stanley, Sullivan and Rosecrans, too much praise cannot be awarded for their gallantry. Gen. Rosecrans, and no better man deserves the major generalship which he has received, conducted himself with admirable daring and coolness, directing movements with the judicious mind of a thorough soldier, and fearlessly exposing himself, dismounted, along the front of his pressed and breaking lines.

Among the trophies of the fight was a beautiful stand of regimental colors inscribed "Oak Hill" and "Elkhorn," showing that the rebel flag had been borne through the perilous fields known more familiarly to the north as Wilson's Creek and Pea Ridge.

When Price retreated, he covered his magnificent train, over two miles in length, with a full brigade, until nearing Thompson's corners, when he formed in line of battle till the train passed on.

General Little, the military adviser of Gen. Price, was killed while in conversation with Price, and Gen. Whitfield, of some other division, wounded in the shoulder.

It is supposed that Price did not expect an attack at Iuka, but was co-operating with Van Dorn, Breckinridge and Villipigue, for a combined attack upon Corinth. His reverse at Iuka, causing him to fall back, has doubtless disconcerted this plan, although at the date of this writing it is supposed that Van Dorn & Co. are doing their part of the programme by a demonstration at Bolivar, to the assistance of which point reinforcements have been sent from here to-day.

I regret to add in connection with this hurried scrawl, that censure is cast upon the 48th Indiana, 80th Ohio and 17th Iowa for misconduct in action, but how far their fault is attributable to the incompetency or poltroonery of officers remains to be investigated.

The following regiments composed the 3d division, which took part in the fight: 5th, 10th, 16th and 17th Iowa; 10th, 11th and 26th Mo.; 48th Indiana; 80th Ohio; 4th Minnesota; 12th Wisconsin battery, and 11th Ohio battery. More anon.

Yours, BURT AXTON.

The following is another account of the battle, from the Cincinnati Gazette:

It was on Friday evening, while the left wing was marching, that Gen. Rosecrans fought the battle of Iuka—undoubtedly the bloodiest and hardest fought battle of the war in the west. It seems that he was oblivious of the flag of truce business, and was intent solely on meeting and fighting the enemy, for on Friday evening, just before sunset, he fell upon him as he was retreating from Iuka, about a mile southeast of that place. Immediately the battle commenced in dead earnest. The rebels formed on a road on a ridge, a line less than a quarter of a mile in length, and this was the whole extent of the battle ground. A single brigade of Gen. Rosecrans' division bore the brunt of the fight. The first movement was to dislodge the rebels from their position by a charge, which was no sooner done than they rallied and drove back our men in a similar manner, only to be driven in turn by our determined troops. Backward and forward thus the tide of battle ebbed and flowed, until darkness put an end to the conflict. Our troops rested near the battle ground till morning, when they found that Price had flown, leaving all his dead and wounded.

I said this was one of the bloodiest western battles. From several persons who on the ground early in the day, I learned that the rebel loss in killed and wounded was not less than 500, fully 300 of whom were killed. Our own loss was 120 killed and about 200 wounded. All this, too, was done in an hour and a half, and very much of it with the bayonet. It was almost entirely a hand-to-hand enagement. I regret exceedingly that circumstance have rendered it impossible for me to obtain any list of killed and wounded. I can only say that the 11th Ohio battery and the 5th Iowa Infantry suffered terribly. This battery was in possession of the rebels when the 5th Iowa charged them with a valor of which Iowa may well be proud, and retook the guns—the horses all being killed. Seventy or eighty of the men belonging to this battery were either killed or wounded. The number lost by the 5th Iowa I could not ascertain. An orderly told me he saw 27 of them gathered in one place for burial.

BY TELEGRAPH.

REPORTED FOR THE DAILY GAZETTE.

BY WISCONSIN STATE TELEGRAPH LINE,
Office in Union Passenger Depot.

Last Night's Report.

LOUISVILLE, Sept. 29.

At the Galt House at about 8 o'clock this morning, a difficulty occurred between Brig. Gen. Jeff. C. Davis and Maj. Gen. Nelson. It appears that there has been a difficulty between the parties for some time. Nelson was in the office of the Galt House, when Davis approached and spoke to him, when Nelson refused to listen to him, and used some insulting language. Davis immediately borrowed a pistol and followed Nelson, who was going up stairs to his room, and whilst on the stairs shot him, the ball entering the heart. Nelson afterwards walked to his room, and was laid on a mattrass. He died about 8½ o'clock.

LOUISVILLE, Sept. 29.

There are many conflicting accounts of the shooting of Gen. Nelson by Davis.—About a week ago Nelson placed Davis in command of the home guard forces of the city. At night Davis reported to Nelson the number of men working on the entrenchments and enrolled for service.—Nelson cursed him for not having more. Davis replied that he was a general officer and demanded the treatment of a gentleman. Nelson, in an insulting manner, ordered him to report at Cincinnati, and told him he would order a provost marshal to eject him from the city. This morning Gov. Morton and Gen. Nelson were standing in the rear of the desk of the Galt House, when Gen. Davis approached and requested Gov. Morton to witness the conversation between himself and Nelson.

He demanded of Nelson an apology for the rude tertment he had received last week. Nelson, being a little deaf, asked him to speak louder. Davis demanded an apology. Nelson denounced him and slapped him on the face. Davis stepped back, clenched his fist and again demanded an apology. Nelson slapped him in the face again and denounced him as a coward.—Davis turned away, procured a pistol from a friend and followed Nelson, who was going up stairs. Davis told Nelson to defend himself, and immediately fired. The ball penetrated the left breast. Nelson died in about twenty minutes. Nelson requested to see his old friend, Rev. Mr. Talbott, rector of Calvary Episcopal Church, who was there at the Galt House. Talbott administered the sacrament according to the forms of his church. The general repeated the service after the minister, and refused to talk on any other subject. He regretted that he had not long ago turned his attention to religion.

CAPE RACE, Sept. 26.

The steamship Europa, from Liverpool Sept. 20th, and Queenstown Sept. 21st, has arrived.

The political news is unimportant.

Breadstuffs closed dull, but steady, at Friday's decline—6d on flour, 2d on wheat. Corn unchanged. Provisions flat.

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.

Gov. Berry, of New Hampshire, flatly contradicts the Herald's report of the doings at the conference of governors at Altoona.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 29.

The special Washington dispatch to the Philadelphia North American says:

Rumors are in circulation to the effect that the Union fleet had commenced an attack on Fort Morgan, below Mobile.

The Union prisoners paroled at Harper's Ferry are to be sent to Gen. Pope to fight the Indians.

The army corps of Gen. Sigel has been largely reinforced within the past fortnight. It is whispered that he is now on the track of the enemy not far from Warrenton.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 29.

Harper's Ferry is now held in large force by our troops. Evidently, it is regarded as an important point in the position of the army of the Potomac. All indications here bespeak renewed activity on the part of the army. Rebel accounts of the late battle create some disgust but more amusement among officers and soldiers.

The headquarters of Gen. McClellan have been removed from Sharpsburg to a point three miles nearer Harper's Ferry.

To-Day's Report.

[Reported Exclusively for the Daily Gazette.]

MORNING DISPATCHES.

FORTRESS MONROE, Sept. 28.

A flag of truce brought down five families from Richmond bound north.

The Richmond Dispatch, of Sept. 25th, says our army is daily increasing by accessions of stragglers and conscripts. Whatever may be the intended movements of Lee, he is perfectly successful in keeping them concealed from our people, and finds little chance of making its way to the enemy. Up to Tuesday last our pickets extended to the neighborhood of Harper's Ferry. It is not probable that the federal army will attempt to cross the Potomac at present against us. Remney is occupied by our rangers. Five hundred Yankees, many of them wounded, are expected to arrive, to-day, from Gordonsville. If they arrive in season they may be included in the number of released prisoners that we shall send to Aiken's Landing to day, (Thursday.) Twenty-one Yankee prisoners, captured in North Carolina, arrived at Lybey prison, yesterday.

The Dispatch also mentions the fact that Abraham has issued a proclamation to liberate the slaves, but makes no further comment on the subject.

The Dispatch contains an item from a Texas paper, dated Sept. 3d, which says: Sam Houston is alive yet, and well, and living on his old homestead.

The Richmond Examiner says that the public highway in the valley of Virginia, from Winchester to Staunton, is crowded with suffering and wounded soldiers—poor fellows who were in the terrible fights of Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, and especially in the terrible fight of Wednesday of last week. They left the battle for home or the hospital, and were too weak to proceed, and had no money to procure their passage. It is exceedingly painful and sorrowful to see these poor, ragged, toil-worn, battle-scared heroes, trudging wearily and languidly along. Let them be looked after at once. The same paper complains of frequent failure of southern mails. The Examiner also regrets that debates in congress on the conscription bill should be conducted in a way to influence the public mind. It complains particularly of the speech of Conrad, of Louisiana, on the subject, and adds that the word "states" means much more than is implied in Conrad's limited lexicon. States are not political organizations, they are sovereignties.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 29.

A ride from the center of the army of the Potomac to its right wing, at Williamsport, gives one an impressive idea of the immense numbers of men and aggregate material that has been brought together; for 13 miles the eye never loses sight of camps. N. McLaughlin, of Brad. Johnson's staff, gave himself up to the pickets of the 8th Maryland. He states he was utterly tired of the rebel service, and would sooner be in Fort McHenry than with their army in Virginia. Early this morning a large force of cavalry crossed the Potomac at Blackburn's Ford, and moved off towards Shepardstown. They had not returned when I close this letter. Our scouts visit Shepardstown frequently by day, while the rebel cavalry still come there at night, that place being held by neither. At Shepardstown Ferry, on this side of the Potomac, there are over 200 wounded rebel prisoners guarded by the 91st Pennsylvania regiment and under the care of six rebel surgeons. The men are of desperately wounded cases. Our advance is four or five miles out, and a rebel force composed of 10 brigades of Louisiana and North Carolina troops are in our immediate in front and show a disposition to contest our further advance. A spirited cavalry and artillery skirmish took place this morning, in which our men did well and drove the rebels some distance. A rebel cavalry officer was captured and brought in to the ferry.

The Washington correspondence of the Tribune says: Sigel has asked to be relieved of his command. His letter to the President gives the following reasons for the course he has found it necessary to pursue:

1st, Because he was placed under the command of a junior officer without the knowledge of the President, although the President alone has power to place a junior over a senior of the same grade. 2d, Because his command has gradually been reduced; first by removal from it of two divisions, Cox and Cooks, and then of the brigades of Piatt and Milroy. 3d, Because none of the regiments raised expressly for him, except one, have been assigned to him; nor have others been given him in their places. 4th, Because of the grossly abusive manner in which Halleck has treated him, personally and officially. 5th, Because his little command has been placed in an exceedingly exposed position, and ordered to perform tasks that are impossible for it, and require a large command. 6th, Because he cannot procure horses or equipage for his artillery and cavalry, and hence those arms of the service are comparatively useless to him.

7th. Because all his requests and requisitions are neglected or refused, on account of which his troops are discouraged and comparatively inefficient, and many have not been paid for six months.

8th, Because he cannot expect fair treatment, and because his troops, for whom he is doubly concerned, are made the innocent sufferers on his account. He is persuaded that they would fare better under another commander.

The statement that troops raised expressly for Sigel had not been given him, is confirmed by the testimony of the governors of six states: Governors Yates, Tod, Blair, Kirkwood, Andrew and Sprague, who are anxious to know why this is so arranged, and why the authorities do not carry out the agreement made at the time permission was granted the governors to raise regiments for Sigel.

Several western governors are urging the appointment of Hooker to command the Union armies in the Mississippi Valley.

Judge Lane, of northern Alabama, is here. He says, as all men say who live in that section of country, that it is of paramount importance to take possession of East Tennessee and hold against all rebel comers. He says that if our lines extended to the whole southern boundary of Tennessee, the rebel army would be entirely unable to support itself. Speaking from a thorough knowledge of the nature of the country south of that line, he says it is incapable of producing the requisite supplies. He considers the recent movements northward, of the rebel armies, to be in the main great foraging expeditions in search of bread.

It is stated by very respectable authority that General Cassius M. Clay will, after all, return to Russia. The reason assigned is, his inability to agree with the administration in regard to the conduct of the war. The statement gains in cred bility, from rumors which have for some time prevailed, of Mr. Cameron's expecte! return on a visit.

The Times' correspondence asserts that the conscription act is being actively and most rigidly enforced in that portion of Eastern Virginia now occupied by the rebel army. Every white male person between 15 and 65 is being impressed into the rebel service. The rebels have also impressed all negroes into their service as teamsters and laborers in the quartermaster's department.

The statement going the rounds to the effect that previous to his leaving Washington for Frederick, McClellan advised the abandonment of Harper's Ferry, is unfounded.

Gen. Harney had an interview to-day with the secretary of war, but the object and result has not transpired.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.

The following report of the victory of Antietam has been forwarded to headquarters of the army by Gen. McClellan:

NEAR SHAPSBURG, Sept. 29—1:30 P. M.

To Maj. Gen. H. W. Halleck, General-in-Chief U. S. Army:

I have the honor to report the following as some of the results of the battle of South Mountain and Antietam. At South Mountain our loss was 443 dead, 1,860 wounded, and 76 missing; total, 2,315. At Antietam our loss was 2,010 killed, 9,416 wounded and 1,044 missing; total, 12,469. Total loss in both battles, 14,794. The loss of the rebels in the two battles, as near as can be ascertained from other data, will not fall short of the following estimate:

Major Davis, assistant inspector general, who superintended the burial of the dead, reports about 3,000 rebels buried upon the field of Antietam by our troops. Previous to this, however, the rebels have buried many of their own dead upon the distant portion of the battle field, which they occupied after the battle, probably at least 500. The loss of the rebels at South Mountain cannot be ascertained with accuracy, but as our troops drove them from the commencement of the action, and as much greater number of their dead was seen on the field than of our own men, it is not unreasonable to suppose that their loss was greater than ours.

Estimating their killed at 500, the total rebels killed in the two battles would be 4,000. According to the rates of our own killed and wounded, this would make their loss, in wounded, 18,742, as nearly as can be determined at this time. The number of prisoners taken by our troops in the two battles will, at the lowest estimate, amount to 5,000. The full returns will no doubt show a larger number; of these, about 1200 are wounded. This gives a rebel loss in killed, wounded and prisoners of 25,542. It will be observed that this does not include their stragglers, the number of whom is said to be be by citizens very large.

It may be safely concluded that the rebel army lost at least 30,000 of their best troops from the time our troops first encountered the enemy in Maryland, until he was driven back into Virginia. We captured thirteen guns, seven caissons, nine limbers, two field forges, two caisson bodies, thirty-nine colors and one signal flag. We have not lost a single gun or a color on the battle field of Antietam. 14,000 small arms were collected besides the large number carried off by citizens and those distributed on the ground to recruits and others, unarmed men arriving. Immediately after the battle of South Mountain, no collection of small arms was made, owing to the haste of the pursuit from that point. Four hundred were taken from the opposite side of the Potomac. (Signed)

GEO. B. McCLELLAN,
Major General Commanding.

The Third Regiment at the Battle of Antietam.

Col. T. H. Ruger has made a report to Gov. Salomon of the casualties in the 3d Wisconsin regiment in the battle of Antietam, or Sharpsburg. He says:

"The action began about six o'clock in the morning, and continued with great severity during the forenoon and on portions of the field during the day. The regiment behaved with great steadiness and fortitude, maintaining itself in an exposed position, with heavy loss, but without flinching, and finally, with others, driving the enemy. The wounded were promptly removed from the field and cared for. I regret to again have to report a melancholy list of killed and wounded. The regiment carried into action about three hundred and forty-five officers and men. The total of killed and wounded is one hundred and ninety-seven, almost two thirds. Most of the wounded will ultimately recover. The following is a list of killed, wounded and missing. The wounded on being removed from the field were distributed to the various hospitals, in some cases miles distant, so that it has been impossible, in many cases, to ascertain the character of the wounds."

Col. Ruger reports a full list of the killed and wounded. The number killed was 27, wounded 170. Such a report is a conclusive evidence though a sad tribute to the bravery and good conduct of the regiment. Col. H., in a private note to Gov. S., says that his wound is too slight for him to allow his name to be placed in the list.

The 28th Wisconsin Infantry.

This fine regiment, now encamped in Camp Washburn, Milwaukee, is progressing well in drill and efficiency. It is most admirably officered—both for qualities to secure gallantry in the field, and kind, good management in camp—the officers showing lively solicitude for the well being of the men, in all matters, for health and comfort.

AMERICAN AND ENGLISH OPERATIVES.—Anthony Trollope, in his interesting work on America, thus contrasts the appearance of the operatives in Lowell, Massachusetts, and Manchester, England:

"That which most surprises an English visitor, on going through the mills at Lowell, is the personal appearance of the men and women who work at them. As there are twice as many women as there are men, it is to them the attention is chiefly called. They are not only better dressed, cleaner and better mounted in every respect than the girls employed at manufactories in England, but they are so infinitely superior as to make a stranger immediately perceive that some very strong cause must have created the difference. We all know that class of young women whom we generally see serving behind counters in the shops of our great cities. They are neat, well-dressed, careful, especially about their hair, composed in their manner, and sometimes a little supercilious in the propriety of their demeanor. It is exactly the same class of young women that one sees in the factories at Lowell. They are not sallow, nor dirty, nor ragged, nor rough. They have about them no signs of want or of low culture. One would, of course be disposed to say that the superior condition of the workers must have been occasioned by superior wages; this, to a certain extent, has been the cause. Women's wages including all that they receive at the Lowell factories, average about 14s a week, which is, I take it, fully a third more than women can earn in Manchester, or did earn before the loss of the American cotton began to tell upon them. But if wages at Manchester were raised to the Lowell standard, the Manchester women would not be clothed, fed, cared for and educated like the Lowell women."

At a recent fire in Fall River, two Irish laborers, who had behaved gallantly in attempting to subdue the flames, were caught in a dangerous predicament. One gable of the house fell in, and that under which they were standing tottered over them. One of the men attempted to fly from the spot, but was overtaken by the burning ruins, and very seriously injured. The other seeing an open door in the base of the wall, darted through it, and emerged unhurt on the other side. His employer, the next day, commenting on his escape, said he should return thanks to Providence for his preservation. "Och, thin," said Dermot, scratching his head very slowly, "sure I do be thankful to Providence, and I think it was very merciful to me; but, sir, wasn't I mighty cute myself?"

SPECIFICATIONS

For grading that portion of Madison Street extending north from Ravine street to Jackson street, in the First Ward, city of Janesville.

The center line of said street shall be filled from the side gutters to the elevation shown on the profile, and deposited in such places as are necessary, marked on said profile, so that when completed the street shall produce one true surface, as indicated by the established grade for said street, on file in the city clerk's office. If sufficient earth shall not be obtained by the side cutting from the gutters to do the necessary filling, both on the center line and gutters, the residue of earth necessary shall be hauled and deposited on said street from such places as may be indicated by the aldermen of the first ward, not exceeding 150 rods distant from said street. Said gutters shall have a depth of one foot on each side of their respective cross sections, and are to be graded so that when completed the street shall represent one uniform surface, crowning from the center line to the gutter bottoms one foot, width of grading 51 feet.

The grading to be finished to the satisfaction of the aldermen of the first ward, or such person as they may appoint to superintend it.

The center line is represented on the accompanying plan, and is made part of the specifications.

Notice.

Notice is hereby given that at the regular meeting of the common council of the city of Janesville, to be held on the ninth day of October, 1862, the said council will proceed to act in relation to the work mentioned in the foregoing specifications, and that until the day last aforesaid sealed proposals for the performance of said work will be received by the city clerk.

Correspondence of the Daily Gazette.

From the Twelfth Wisconsin Battery.

JACINTO, Sept. 24th, 1862.

EDS. GAZETTE:—We are now encamped just outside the village of Jacinto, and are in hopes that we will be allowed to remain a while and drill, but there is no certainty of our staying anywhere any length of time; that ever moving rebel, Price, dont give us much rest. But we are enough for him. I rather think he came to that conclusion at Iuka last Friday. We have had a hard tramp of three days, our horses being so worn out by hard service that we were obliged to foot it, and it was rather a rough initiation for the Janesville boys, as they had not been accustomed to that style of traveling. We had been with the battery but three days when we received orders to pack up all our luggage, send it to Corinth, and start with the rest of the division for Iuka. When an army is on the march in this part of the country they generally fare well, as we have full privilege to take whatever we want from the farm houses, fields and orchards along the route, and the battery boys have proved themselves as good at "jayhawking" as those older in the service. Hard crackers and salt pork are thrown aside, they are not fit to eat when beef, poultry, sweet potatoes and fruit are to be had. You Janesville people would smile to see the "flower of the city" roasting potatoes, frying meat or baking pancakes over a fire in the woods; but our victuals must be cooked, it wont do to eat them raw. You can imagine about how palatable those pancakes are, made of flour and water, and cooked in a frying pan, but they are better than hard, musty crackers.

You have probably heard that the 12th battery was in the light at Iuka. Two guns only opened fire, but they did good execution. The other two were disabled while being drawn on the field, and were left for awhile, but were afterwards drawn off. A few of the Janesville boys were in the action and fought like old hands. Most of us, however, were scattered about wherever we pleased to go, as we had not been assigned to our pieces, and had had no drill. What they took us into the fight for is more than I can tell. Although the balls flew thick around us, and many of us no doubt called to mind long forgotten prayers, we came out safe, and are better prepared for the next engagement.

As night came on the firing ceased, and we lay down to sleep away the hours till morning, when we fully expected the contest would be renewed, but Gen. Price concluded to follow out his old programme—the skedaddle. We started on towards Iuka, but soon received orders to turn about, and make all haste to cut off the retreat of the enemy. We made haste, but were too late; the rebels had given us the slip. We again turned about, and did not camp till 9 o'clock that night. I do not know the distance traveled, but we hoofed it all day under a hot sun, and through a hilly country. The next day, Sunday, we drew two day's rations and left for Jacinto about noon, which place we reached about ten o'clock, and in the morning moved half a mile out of town, where we now are.

We have been assigned to our pieces, and drill several hours each day, making good progress.

The 8th Wisconsin is in camp about a mile from here. Most of the boys of Co. G have been over to see us; they are the happiest set of fellows I ever saw, and are generally tough and hearty.

We received our mail to-day, for the first time in a week, and the boys are now scattered around busily engaged in devouring the contents of letters and papers. Our knapsacks have not yet come up, and as our writing materials are in them, the people of Janesville need not think strange that they do do not receive letters from the battery. Yours, W. S. B.

☞ The 32d regiment, Col. Howe, has been mustered into service. Their destination is supposed to be the Indian war.

☞ Over 8,000 of the Union soldiers captured at Harper's Ferry, and subsequently paroled, have now arrived at Chicago and are in the barracks of Camp Douglas. They are to be armed and newly equiped for frontier service, unless sooner exchanged.

AT LAPPIN'S HALL, THIS EVENING.—Cadwell's Opera Troupe, who have been playing with success, in Milwaukee make their first bow in our city. They number twelve star performers. Press and public, wherever they have appeared, pronounce them as second to no troupe in the country. The price of admission is within the reach of every one—only 25 cents.

☞ Reconnoisances have been made from Washington to Warrenton Junction, and no enemy found.

☞ It is believed that the rebel invasion of Kentucky has sole reference to winter supplies, and that they will soon retire with their plunder, without fighting, if Buell remains in command.

FOND DU LAC DISTRICT.—The republican congressional convention, which met at Fond du Lac last week, declined to nominate a republican candidate, and recommended Col. Bragg to the electors. Col. B. is a Union, war democrat, and his election over Mr. Eldredge, the Ryan address candidate, is not improbable.

WAUKESHA COUNTY.—The number of enrollments in Waukesha was 4,644, and the exemptions 770.

Renting of Slips Postponed.

The renting of the slips in Christ Church is postponed until Thursday next, at 10 o'clock A. M. H. T. SELBY,
d2t. Secretary.

☞ In Jefferson county, 3,289 persons have been returned on the enlistment rolls, and 1,564 volunteers are reported, including old and new regiments.

☞ A son of George D. Prentice was mortally wounded in a fight at Augusta, Ky., last week. He was a lieutenant colonel in the rebel service.

☞ The Ladies Hospital Relief Society will meet at Mrs. Geo. B. Ely's, on Bluff Street, on Wednesday, Oct. 1st, from one o'clock till five o'clock P. M.

MARIA F. CLARK, Secretary.

Lord Monck, Governor General of Canada, Lord Mulgrave, Governor General of Nova Scotia, Lord F. Pantett, of the British army, and other English dignitaries, arrived at Chicago on Saturday. They have come for a hunting expedition on the Illinois prairies.

KILLED.—Henry Cooper, son of John H. Cooper, of Shopiere, a member of one of the New York regiments, was killed in the battle of the 17th, the ball striking him in the mouth. He died instantly. Mr. Cooper was at one time a member of Beloit College.—Beloit Journal.

Judson's Mountain Herb Pills.—How strange and wonderful it often seems to us that a medicine composed of simple mountain herbs and roots, should so certainly search out and cure disease. How surprising that the Indians should know and preserve so long and well a secret that has escaped the search of the greatest physicians the world has ever seen. True, the ancient inhabitants of Mexico were strange race, found by the Spaniards living in large cities, and allowing for their strange customs and religion as well civilized as their conquerors. In the words of a writer of some celebrity, "They have perished from the earth; their cities are yet the cities of ruins, their Kings and Princes so mighty in their life, are forgotten; their ruins and their medicine alone are left." The united testimony of all intelligent persons is, that JUDSON'S MOUNTAIN HERB PILLS are the most successful medicine in the world in curing disease.

WARRANTEE DEEDS FOR SALE.

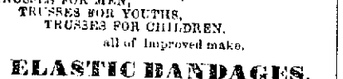

OVER THE POST OFFICE.

THERE is nothing so much sought for by the public as a practical Sewing Machine, one that is Simple, Strong & Reliable.
One that will run for years without the annoyance of being out of repair: one that is noiseless and swift in motion: also that makes the stitch as you want it, alike on both sides of the fabric; such are the machines of the
FLORENCE SEWING MACHINE COMPANY.
Who take pleasure in placing their Machines before the public, and unhesitatingly say they are the best in the world, and openly and publicly challenge machines of any and all manufactures to do as large a range of work as can easily be done on one of these machines. They make
FOUR DIFFERENT STITCHES,
and have all the advantage of a reversible feed motion, which carries the work either way, which, together with making all the six stitches, can be done whilst the machine is in motion; the saving of time in stopping to change the length of stitch, is obviated by this machine.

Any correspondence regarding our Machines will be promptly answered. Enclose a Letter Stamp and we will send circular and sample of work by return mail
